

the RISA bar

The Quintessential Culture
of Social Drink_ng

The custom of social drinking has evolved through ages and has led to emergence of connoisseurs. Ways of production and consumption of beverages have defined societies and lifestyles of its people. Together they form a story of how a drink is produced, what it's made from and how it's consumed.

The walls of RISA get inspirations from such stories and associated forms. Each wall of RISA is a composition of murals depicting intriguing glassware used for different beverages. Thus abstractions of beer mug, pint glass, wheat beer glass, lager make the beer mural: champagne coupe & flute adorn the Champagne mural and the Glen cairn whisky glass and bottles form the whisky mural. The other murals feature wineglass, sake glass and bottles, margarita glass, snifter, cocktail glass, hurricane glass, sherry glass, chalice, absinthe glass and such rich variants of glassware forms.

Interspersed amidst these are six feature murals. One is greeted at the entrance by 'symposium'- literally meaning drinking together; a key social institution where the young from good families were introduced to the aristocratic society and which also is known as birthplace of philosophy. The mural depicts the scene from symposium with silhouettes of the participants and amazingly voluptuous forms of rhyton, craters, kylix and such wares. In a way 'symposium' sets the tone for an ambiance of RISA meant to represent things beyond drinking and revelry.

The engaging welcome experience is further enhanced by the grand bar counter composition featuring fascinating source plant shapes like grains, barley, grapes, cane, coffee beans, agave fruit along with distillation equipment and an immense variety of glassware.

We welcome you to Risa,
Enjoy your time here!!!!
